It is important to cover each child with a craft smock or a large old shirt so their clothes will not get stained when finger painting. Cover all surfaces with a protective vinyl tablecloth or newspaper before setting up the paints and paper. It makes for an easier clean-up and whoever is finger painting doesn't have to worry about making a mess. Soap and water will do the trick of cleaning up the painters effectively.

Make a clothesline indoors and hang the artwork to dry with a clothespin. Then choose the child's favorite work of art and hang it on the refrigerator for display. It will be a source of pride for your child.
